Dealers in Antiques & Collectibles Only!

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE!

You have just arrived in Brimfield and face a sea of dealers and merchandise. You are searching for Furniture and Sterling Silver. Begin your search by:

1. CATEGORIES: Begin your search by browsing the general category list in the column to the right on this page. Choose a category and look for the heading listed alphabetically in this guide.

2. DEALERS: are listed alphabetically under each category heading. Each dealer listing contains three columns of information. You will find the dealer's name, the name of the show (abbreviated) where they display, and their booth number.

Sample:

DEALER	SHOW	BOOTH
Furniture
Tim's Antiques	Mays	800
Sterling & Silver Plate
Slim's Silver	Quaker	1000

3. FINDING A DEALER: After finding a dealer in your chosen category, refer to the color show map on pages 12 & 13. Find the show's location, the opening dates, and the days the show remains open. Noting the show schedule is helpful as different shows open on different days and times.

4. OTHER HELPFUL TIPS: When you arrive at a particular show and still cannot find the dealer or merchandise you are looking for, try asking the show promoter or a fellow dealer. They can be very helpful. Remember that you can do a more detailed category search on BrimfieldExchange.com from the comfort of your home. Here you can search with more specific terms i.e. Czech, or Royal Doulton or Pop Culture, or you may want to locate a specific dealer by name. NOTE! Some dealers use their business names and some use their personal names. Some dealers have links from their online listing to their own website, online store or business cards.

General Information: During Brimfield week BrimfieldExchange operates an information booth located across from May's Antique Market right on Route 20. View our location on page 12 of this guide by looking for the purple spot. This booth also provides internet access, maps and complimentary trade publications.

UNUSUAL EXPRESSIONS OF THE AMERICAN FLAG

Our Country has been going through yet another era of intense patriotism precipitated by the events of September 11th and its sequel. Characteristically, the American Flag, the symbol of our Country's Independence, has again become the lens that focuses our expression of patriotism. No matter where one finds oneself in our Country, you can not go very far before seeing American Flags festooned on houses, buildings, vehicles, and even on individual children and adults.

As an individual who has studied and collected American Flags for many years, I have been struck by the general lack of knowledge about the history and uniqueness of the American Flag among antique collectors, antique dealers, children and adults who I meet.

How many of us know that the American Flag represents the oldest national flag in the world that has been continually used and updated throughout its history? How many know that people who study and collect flags are called vexillophiles?

Most of us do not know that there were 3 Flags Acts passed by Congress none of which went beyond describing the elements that made up our flag at a specific period of time leaving the configuration of the stars to the discretion of individual seamstresses and flag makers. That custom did not change until 1912, after New Mexico and Arizona were officially admitted into the Union, when President William Howard Taft wrote an Executive Order describing how the stars should be configured on our new 48 star flag.

Americans alive today are often only familiar with the 48, 49, and 50 star American National Flag. The following flags show unusual, and unique, 19th century American National Flags. I think we all will find each of these have a great sense of graphic design and represent examples of the first true form of American folk art.

34 Star American National Flag: The stars are configured in a total scatter pattern containing segments of vertical rows of stars, swirls or semi-circles of stars, and diagonal rows of stars. This rarely found but most prized pattern clearly demonstrates the individuality that flag makers added to the construction of each of their flags. Adding to the great folk art quality of this flag is not only the scattering of the stars but that an extra piece of blue or red wool bunting was added vertically to the hoist (left side) of the flag and then tucked into its sleeve framing that border of the flag. Kansas was admitted to the Union as our 34th State on January 29th, 1861 with this wool bunting flag seeing use during the years of the War of the Rebellion, commonly called the Civil War.

13 Star American National Flag: The cotton muslin stars are configured in an irregular oval of stars surrounding 3 central stars to which have been added 21 smaller stars in inexact vertical rows onto a homespun wool canton. The stripes are likewise made of homespun wool while the sleeve is homespun linen. This flag was originally made during the early 1820's to commemorate General Lafayette's return visit to the United States in 1824. Such a patriotic and historic memento was retained by its maker and later updated to a 34 star flag during 1861 to acknowledge Kansas being added as our 34th State during the War of the Rebellion, more commonly called the Civil War. Most American are unaware that all US Navy ships carried a 13 star flag off their stern to commemorate our Colonial history until President Wilson ended this custom, by Executive Order, in 1916.

13 Star American National Flag: The cotton muslin stars are configured in inexact horizontal rows giving a scattered appearance that is amplified by the varied orientations of the vertical axis of each star as if the stars are twinkling. President Washington asked Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration from New Jersey, to design the first 13 star flag. Unfortunately, there is no record of what star configuration was initially chosen. As a result of this, it was left to the individual flag makers and seamstresses to design these early flags. This may well be a unique example of the only flag surviving with this configuration. Although there were 3 Acts of Congress describing the elements that made up our Flag, it was not until 1912 when New Mexico and Arizona were added officially to the Union, that President Taft wrote an Executive Order describing how the stars should be configured.

38 Star 4th US Infantry Flank Guidon Flag: the 38 embroidered stars are configured in a double medallion or double wreath pattern with corners stars all surrounding the number "4" on this tattered silk flag. The 4th US Infantry was famous during the Indian Wars period for fighting a group of Ute Indians who had massacred the Indian Agent and returning them to their reservation. Flank Guidon flags were mounted on a pole and carried in the muzzle of Infantry sergeants' rifles while they marched at the sides of a column.

In this way the soldiers could maintain a straight line while marching.

48 Star World War I Allies Flag: The white or blue stars are printed onto a canton consisting of the French flag while the stripes consisting of a repeating printed pattern of the British Union Jack. The flag is made of silk and likely was an unusual acknowledging our major allies during that war.
